Sonya Carrasco-Trujillo Reappointed to Five-Year Term

ALBUQUERQUE – Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham has reappointed Sonya Carrasco-Trujillo to serve a five-year term as a workers' compensation judge for the Workers' Compensation Administration (WCA), effective June 10, 2024. Carrasco-Trujillo was initially appointed to a one-year term, beginning June 10, 2023.

"I am humbled and grateful for this continued opportunity to serve my fellow New Mexicans as a workers' compensation judge, and I look forward to my future with the administration," said Judge Carrasco-Trujillo.

Prior to joining the WCA, Carrasco-Trujillo, a Santa Fe native, served as General Counsel for the Department of Military Affairs.

Workers' compensation judges hear and decide disputes over benefits due to injured workers throughout New Mexico. New judges are statutorily appointed to an initial one-year term, then can be reappointed thereafter to five-year terms. The Workers' Compensation Administration works to ensure the quick and efficient delivery of medical and indemnity benefits to injured workers at a reasonable cost to employers.
